

Straight Talk on Collecting Photography Ten More Essential Books

This week we are continuing our series on collecting photography. We have produced a series of videos along with added illustrations and handouts that can be viewed weekly on our website. We hope to cover many aspects that we feel are important to both beginning and seasoned collectors. The topics for the videos are a result of many conversations we have had in our gallery with visitors over the past forty years.

Collecting photography books goes hand in hand with a photographic collection. New collectors are often interested in learning more about the history of the medium and some of the key artists, while others enjoy having volumes by or about the photographers that they collect.

Based on the overwhelming response from last week's video we have been motivated to produce another trying to address some of the many questions and comments we received. In this week's video David has selected more volumes that we feel cover essential topics or artists to be included in your library. Thinking more about diversity in our selection and trying to be a bit more contemporary we feel this video, in conjunction with last week's video, will serve as a well-rounded core collection for your libraries as photographers and/or photographic collectors.

We have updated our website and created a new section for Works by Various Artists. This page includes a wonderful variety of photographs. We will be posting new inventory on this page as it arrives at the gallery.

We again want to thank you for the feedback and wonderful responses. Your emails and calls mean the world to us and continue to motivate.

Many of you have also asked about accessing our previous emails. We have added a new page on our website entitled “History of Photography”. All our past and future weekly mailings will be located there for viewing. Please feel free to share them and encourage interested parties to join our mailing list under “contact”.

Thank you, please stay safe, healthy, productive, and involved.
